Sangath in Ahmedabad

Architect and urban planner Balkrishna V. Doshi Indian is one of the most recognized and influential people of his country, but beyond that, his cultural theories and philosophical teachings have taken a leading position in the international scene. Educated outside India, their continuing concern was to find their architecture that would meet the immediate needs of their country, their social and economic conditions, in their architectural terms, in line with the ongoing architecture of living and values.

About Author:

Vidhi mistry

Urbanist Architecture took the greatest pride and care in our project, they nurtured it as if it was their own, and demonstrated such professionalism and confidence that cannot be found elsewhere. All the tangible assets of a successful company were shown, great communication, organisation, planning and trust. We received our planning permission with great surprise, as what almost seemed like an impossible task was turned into an i am possible. Would strongly recommend this great architecture company, to those who find it hard to obtain planning permission.
